Kartell Khan Chandelier

Khan, designed by Phillipe Starck, is a modern take on the traditional chandelier which stands out due to the combination of styles. Starck combines contemporary minimalism with 18th-century design, providing an excellent light source as well as a touch of sophistication and luxury. Phillipe Starck was specifically inspired by the palaces of the 18th century, along with their elegance, when he designed the Kartell Khan Chandelier. This luminaire is made entirely from polycarbonate 2.0, a new durable and sustainable material - not only providing a high-quality light but also helping the environment.

The Khan Chandelier is a perfect example of when classic and modern styles overlap; this light boasts architectural expressions whilst still providing a luxurious atmosphere to your home or commercial space. Khan is a perfect addition above your dining table, in your hallway and even above your bed. It can also make a bold statement in public spaces such as hotel lobbies, shopping centres, restaurants and bars.

The bulbs for the Khan Chandelier are only available from Kartell. You can purchase replacements in packs of two. Please contact us for more information and pricing.
