The Kartell Luce LED Floor Lamp brings direct overhead light to a table or seating area from a freestanding arched structure. Designed by Ferruccio Laviani, it revisits the familiar suspended lamp, positioning the shade away from the base so that the area beneath remains open.

Its generous reach makes Luce useful beside a sofa or reading chair, or over part of a dining table where a ceiling fitting may not be suitable. The integrated LED produces a warm white light, while the dimmable output allows the brightness to be lowered for the evening or increased when more direct light is needed.

Luce is made from recycled and painted thermoplastic technopolymer and is available in White, Black, and Terracotta. White offers a quieter appearance, Black gives the curved silhouette greater definition, and Terracotta brings a warmer finish to the design. Most suited to living rooms, dining spaces, reading areas, and larger contract interiors.
