Flos Foglio Wall Light

The Foglio Wall Light harnesses an unusual curved structure created from steel, which is powder painted in a choice of white, black, gold and chrome. Designed by Tobia Scarpa in 1966, this wall light has stood the test of time and remains one of Flos' most popular products. The body of Foglio is crafted from pressed steel, with two internal lamp supports that utilise injection-moulded nylon.

The meandering waves and curved profile of the Flos Foglio Wall Light complement the output of soft diffused illumination, and the 1960s feel gives the fixture a special charm. Foglio has a timeless, graphic style and emits indirect, partially diffused light to create an ambient glow, perfect for lighting in a hallway, bedroom, dining room or living area. Similarly, it is an elegant addition to commercial spaces, especially in the hospitality sector, adding contemporary charm to hotels, bars, restaurants and shopping spaces.
